

The Funny Little Bunny with the Powder Puff Tail

by Gene Autry

www.singing-bell.com

There was a little bunny who lived down the lane
in his hole in an old log rail.
With his little pink nose,
And, his long white ears,
The Funny Little Bunny with The Powder Puff Tail!

He woke one morning and his mama said,
"Now take this yellow pale
Of Easter eggs to the boys and girls."
You Funny Little Bunny With The Powder Puff Tail!

But on his way a big bad wolf
Leaped from the side of the trail.
He snapped at the bunny with his long white teeth.
But all he got was a powder puff tail.

Away he ran to the children's house
As fast as he could sail.
And, the big bad wolf was fooled again
By the Funny Little Bunny with The Powder Puff Tail!

Now the funny little bunny lives safe and sound
in his home in the hollow rail.
And he sits and he paints on his Easter eggs.
The Funny Little Bunny with The Powder Puff Tail!

The big bad wolf can't bother him.
He's grown too old and frail.
No longer can he harm our pal.
The Funny Little Bunny with The Powder Puff Tail!

So every Easter the bunny can go to the home of the girlies and boys.
He takes them lots of Easter eggs
To fill their hearts with Easter joys.

Now the funny little bunnies all gather round
To hear him tell the tail,
Of the way he fooled the big bad wolf.
The Funny Little Bunny with The Powder Puff Tail!

